"Students Talk Back" is a weekly lunch series where USC students have the opportunity to discuss national and state politics with professional experts from the worlds of campaigns, government, policy and journalism. Every Wednesday, we'll discuss one issue that dominates political debate in Washington and Sacramento. Students will participate as panelists and analysts, and our guest experts will answer questions and respond to comments from those in attendance. The series is co-sponsored by the Unruh Institute of Politics, Department of Political Science, The Daily Trojan, Political Student Assembly, College Democrats and College Republicans.

Interested in government,
politics, policy or public service?
Looking for an internship
or another class?

With POSC 395 you can do both!

Fall registration deadline is Fri., Sept. 11th

POSC 395 offers students firsthand experience in the world of politics. Internship placements are available with elected officials, political consultants, non-governmental organizations, state and local government agencies, environmental organizations, political parties and campaigns, interest groups, political media and more.

Internships provide exciting opportunities to participate in the political process and help gain insight into the nature of political institutions and learn about important policy debates. Internship opportunities also help obtain practical experience and build invaluable relationships with potential future employers, all while earning college credit.

For more information about POSC 395 and other internship opportunities, stop by the Unruh Institute in VKC 263 or Email Jeanine at yutani@usc.edu.
